'Green' is the new mantra of gadget world

Anoop Verma

The gadget world is evolving fast and it does not take much effort to shop green and contribute to the health of our planet. Green gadgets are more energy efficient, less harmful to the environment and provide lasting value for years to come

They say 'green' is red hot nowadays. Going green can help you save the green; lower your utility bills just because you conserve energy and water; and save on food bills when you eat less meat. But do we actually realise how our individual actions have put Planet Earth to a litmus test? It is so frustrating to go to the store and hear a customer say, "A full crate of your best mineral water, my dear fellow. And would you mind packing all that in a sturdy plastic bag?" As if mineral water packaged in plastic bottles is not damaging enough for the environment and we need to make things worse by indulging in plastic. Worse still, this third rock from the Sun may soon choke, thanks to the fast-building toxic waste and e-waste. The truth is that we can't continue to live by skinning the earth's crust just because we need all fossil fuels and mineral resources down there. If you are a dedicated greenie at heart, you must have been struck by a feeling of guilt every time you catch yourself being deeply enmeshed in the tech zeitgeist of the modern society.

Of course, we can use enhanced technologies to protect our planet. But in order to ring in the 'green' in your life, you must

Driving target audience to niche websites is no easy task. But that is exactly what SEO/SEM professionals aim to achieve

The beginning of search engine optimisation can be traced back to the mid-90s when webmasters started optimising sites to ensure top rankings in search engine result pages (SERPs). By 1997, search engine optimisation (SEO) and search engine marketing (SEM) became the hottest discussion topics in popular forums like Usenet. Today, these innovative concepts have emerged as the very backbone of Internet marketing and if you google the word, you will find more than 100 million matches. Scores of articles, blogs, forums, independent professionals and websites endeavour to tackle the

The leading auto maker in India, Maruti Suzuki brought Maruti Grand Vitara to the Indian car market long time back and launched a new version a year back with a lot of new and appealing features. Since the Indian auto giant imports it from Japan instead of manufacturing it in India, the cost of the vehicle shoots up; the Grand Vitara is available across the world under distinctive names while in India it is sold as the Grand Vitara. The SUV now has competition with cars like Honda CR-V, Hyundai Tucson and Ford Endeavour. The SUV comes with a 2.4L engine with manual and automatic gear

Open up earlier prepared inside.psd file. Here we will create the whole content within one breath. I don't want pay too much attention to the design and content for it is really, really dependant on client and brochure's purpose. Thus I won't describe every little action for it is quite nonsense, just main things and tips. All right, fill all of the documents area with orange color and style it with gradients as before we did with Page 1 and 5. It is also a good idea to add just a bit of noise to the gradients. Thanks to this you will avoid the color bounding.
